Congress is scheduled to adjourn for the Christmas holidays on Thursday next. In view of this an effort will be made to have the Senate finally dispose of the matter to-morrow. This undoubtedly would carry the session well into the evening, for a stormy debate is anticipated. If the Senate passes a formal resolution of papers. passes a formal resolution of abroga passes a formal resolution of abrogation it undoubtedly will be referred immediately to the House, and little trouble is expected in obtaining an agreement to it. The language of the Sulzer resolution, which declared that Russia has violated the treaty of 1822 in refusing to honor passports in the hands of American citizens of Jewish faith, undoubtedly will be vigorously defended by many of those who voted for it, but in the end the House is for it, but in the end the House is expected to acquiesce in the Senato view. In fact, some of the House leaders declared to-night that with President Taft threatening to take matters entirely into his own hands, it was essential that Congress should meet his views and deal with the matter diplomatically.

Mr. Tart is said to entertain the hope that if the treaty of 1832 is abrogated in a manner that will carry no offense, a new treaty with Russia, marking a great step forward from marking a great step forward from the old convention, will not be im-possible. If abrogated in the terms of the Suizer resolution, it was said, Mr. Taft takes the ground that the Luited States might just as well abandon hope of ever negotiating an-other treaty with the Russian em-uire.

Representative Sulzer to-day prophesied that the Senate would pass the resolution by a vote as nearly unanimous as that by which it passed the lower branch. Mr. Sulzer was one of the speakers at a mass-meeting arranged under the auspices of the United Hebrew Societies of Washington to advocate the abrogation of the treaty. His prediction was indersed by Senator Poindexter, of Washington; Representatives Murray, of Massachusetts; Kendall, of Iowa, and Dyer, of allesouri.
